Description

A small, solid golden oak 18th Century style longcase clock, dating to George V period, (c.1920). It has an arch top hood with barley twist columns, a glazed panel door and a fielded panel base. It has an engraved brass and silvered dial, with three visible brass cased weights and a wood rod pendulum. The 8 day three train movement has Westminster chimes (Big Ben) that sound the quarters and hours on chime bars. This clock has beautiful sounding chimes, you can either hear them over the phone or we can send you a video clip.
